Gnome

Gnomes are often referred to throughout the Realms as halflings, giffers, spits, and chunks (the latter two are commonly meant as insults). They're commonly mistaken for Hauflins as they are nearly identical in size. However, Gnomes are more slender and generally considered more comely.

Gnomes are the offspring of an Elf and Dwarf parent. The Gnome is but one outcome, children from these two races can be an Elf, Dwarf, or Gnome. However, Gnomes themselves may also have children that are always Gnomes. Gnomes rarely are raised in multiracial settlements, those that are, typically come from more wealthy or prominent families.

Gnomes are incredibly bright. They often lack the strength or agility to do most rigorous professions but dominate areas of fine crafting such as jewelry, or alchemy.
